SENATE PROCEEDINGS. WASHINGTON, Dec. 10,-By a party vote -yeas 39, mays 25—the Senate vesterday look up the bill providing for the admission of Dakoca. In speaking of the general features of the bill Senator Harrison said that it had properly originated with the pogple and that it was powerfly of the Sen ite to make the bill a political measure. There was a unanimity of feeling among the people in favor of admission and also in favor of the division of the Territory. The population and producing capacity of Dakota entitle l it to admission. Nearny all the expenses of a State Government were already defrayed. There was no rely by which Congress could equire a certain population as necessary to a Territory's admission. Since the admission of M's souri no State had overron the number of its unit of representation in the Lower House of Coursess. Congress sould extainly evereuse its discretion. But he believed, toking up the ratio of mer ase in the number of voters, that the Territory now had or would soon have more than the number of people required as a unit of Cours ssional representation. He critished the report of the inhorty Connaittee on Territories presented by Mr. Yest, which declared that the Territory was aheady an elysium. Senator Harrison said that however happy the people taight be they were entitled to elect their own Government and to take a hand in the termation of those Pederal laws by which the Territory is governed. sion of M'ssouri to State had overran the FIRES ELSEWHERE.

READING, Pa., Dec. 10.-Trenton, a nall mining village about two miles from Mahanoy City, Schuylkill County, was the scene of a fearful holocaust at an early hour yesterday morning. The houses in the place were all built of wood, and about daybreak smoke was observed to be issuing from one of them. Franced by a furious gale the flames spread fast, and in a few minutes three adjoining houses were also on fire. The residences were provided with only narrow means of exit, from which the occupants were cut off. Ladders were quickly procured, and the Ladders were quickly procured, and the people in three of the houses were rescued with difficulty. In the house where the flames originated the rescuers were unable to rouse the immares. It is supposed the unfortunate people were overcome by the smoke, for all efforts to arouse them were unavailing, and those on the outside were prevented from entering the windows by the flerceness of the flames. The house was occupied by a miner named Frank Farrell, and while the horror-stricken neoule on the occupied by a miner named Frank Farrell, and while the horror-stricken people on the outside were shouting themselves hoarse Farrell appeared at an open window holding his seven-year-old boy in his arms. The flames were by this time playing flerely around the window at which the miner stood. With one blow of his foothe knocked the window into sublaters and then hearthe window into splinters, and then, leaning far out, dropped his child into the arms of some men standing on the ground below. The father then returned, evidently with the intention of endeavoring to rescue the others. He was never afterward seen alive. Just then the house began to shake: then it careened and fell, burying six per-sons in the mass of smoking ruins. The sons in the mass of smoking rains. The names of the victims are as follows: Frank Farrell, aged forty; Mrs. Frank Farrell, aged thriv-eight: Amy Farrell, aged four-teen: Walter Farrell, aged tan; Thomas Farrell, aged 4: James Frizgerald, a boarder, aged twenty-two.

S. Draper's double Uncle Tom's Uabin troupe was at the opera house test evening, and so was the big au hence that greets this venerable trame in every city. The incl ment state of the weather had no effect in keeping the crowd away. Nothing short of a gath g gun would do that when Uncle Tom ones. The parquet, dress circle and gallery were packed as close with people as sarines in a box. The audience went and laughed by turns, for that is part of the programme when they go to see this drams. The presentation if the piece by Draper's company was very creditable, and everyone secured pleased with it.

Martin Albert, of Warrensburg, who proved hims if to be one of the most enterprising stock men in that vicinity last spring by taking there we of the best Clydesdale stallions to the county, has recently shown that he is not only a breeder of fine horses, but also of cattle. The other day he sold to Jeff Dezbrow, of Alden, McHenry county, Onio, one two year old bull, for $200; two two-year-old neiters with calves, for $100 each; and five spring calves, at $35 each. Hr. Dezbrow has shipped the stock o his home, and reporte a great deal of interest manifested in the time stock by his neighbors.
